

STATISTICAL HAIKU

MA 115

Note: Starred* poems were edited slightly. The order is somewhat random. If you are an author and want your poem removed or credit given in a different way, email the TF.

Applied statistics:
Normally distributed
Inches of rainfall.

-Lee Verdecchia

Probability
Of me acing this exam
Not in the table.

-Jaimie Hall

Time consuming, yes.
Difficult? Absolutely.
Statistics, my end.

-Hannah Leone

My statistics class
Is almost over, but I
Don't want it to be.

-Allison Crouse

Date: April 2008.

So many numbers...
I want to average them all
But days are too short.

-Nicole McLaughlin

A binomial,
Like falling raindrops in March,
Must be put up with.

-Stephanie Kalina

Spring slowly arrives
As we calculate numbers
For statistics class.

-Veronica Mitko

Statistics loves me.
I have a central limit.
My sample is large.

-Ida Habibi

Statistics is nice.
It is helpful in a storm,
Can save you from death.

-Harjot Sandhu

Stats are not easy.
The weather is quite breezy.
I hope I pass this.

*-Ann McCormack

A stats problem
Maximizes your chances
To understand math.

*-George Aoude

When stats tests draw close,
Blame TF for all sadness.
Rainy days are here.

*-Jennifer Yee